VETERAN'S DAUGHTER A RESIDENT OF RICHMOND

Many Names of Distinguished Southern Soldiers Said to Have Been Left Off the Records by Knox.

[From Our Regular Correspondent.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., November 22.—A Richmond man in Washington yesterday said he believed there was a daughter of a veteran of the Revolution living in that city. He could not recall the name and his street address, but said she lived on West Grace Street, not far from Adams or Jefferson.

The topic suggested itself because of the recent issue of the publication of the names of the Southern soldiers who were killed in the Revolution. The names of the soldiers who were killed in the Revolution were published in the Southern States. The names of the soldiers who were killed in the Revolution were published in the Southern States.

NEGRO COUPLE ARE CHARGED WITH THEFT

Two Large Trunks Filled With Clothing of All Sorts—Wanted in Philadelphia.

On advice received yesterday evening from the Philadelphia police authorities, Sergeant Tomlinson, Wren and Gibson and Officer Whitely, of the Richmond detective force, arrested G. Clark, alias William Carson, and his wife, Alma Mary O'Sell, who were wanted in Philadelphia on the charge of stealing a lot of goods from the Bala House in that city.

Clark and his wife, both colored, had with them two large trunks, which, upon examination, proved to contain a lot of men's and women's clothing of all sizes and assortments, besides various other stuff. It would seem that the two trunks had been made up by a tailor for some period of time of everything in the clothing line upon which they could lay their hands. They also had a small trunk with them. All the alleged stolen goods were taken to the Second Police Station, where the two prisoners were also taken to await the arrival of the Philadelphia authorities, who are expected to reach the city some time today.

BOARD OF HEALTH MEETS

Vaccination Station Will Be Established—No Cause for Alarm.

"You mustn't go through here, random," said Police Officer Wiley, standing near a house, going up at 34 South Laurel Street, to a lady who wished to go by. "Can't go by? Why?" demanded the young lady, superciliously.

"Because there's a sick man over there," "Oh, but you know I don't mind sick people," "The staid officer stepped a little closer. "He's got the smallpox," he whispered.

Waiting for no further parley with the representative of the law, the terrified young lady lifted her dainty skirts and fled precipitately down the street.

By this time a crowd had gathered round the place, and everybody began to surge forward. "Smallpox," said Officers Wiley and Holdcroft.

"What?" excitedly, "What lemons by?" The crowd beat a hasty retreat, and the officers of the law soon had the field to themselves, with none to dispute their way.

Stricken at Work.

John Trent, of 75 Williams Street, who had been working as a bricklayer at the house at 24 South Laurel Street, was taken sick yesterday afternoon, and was soon forced to knock off work. As his condition grew steadily worse, a physician was sent for. Dr. West responded, and no sooner had he seen the man than he knew he had the smallpox. Word was sent to the Second Police Station, and Officers Wiley and Holdcroft responded.

The pesthouse wagon was sent for, but it was an hour before it responded with the attendants in charge. By that time the man had broken out completely. He was immediately sent to the pesthouse.

Dr. West remained and vaccinated all the workmen who had been associated with the man.

Another case was discovered yesterday, when a negro servant in a house on East Clay Street was stricken and had to be carried to the pesthouse.

Board of Health Acts.

While the Board of Health is not at all alarmed concerning the smallpox situation here, still every precaution is being taken by that body to prevent the possible spread of the disease in the portions of the city where there are now no cases.

To this end the board held a special session yesterday and named six physicians to vaccinate persons in the West End, on Brook Avenue and in the colored section of the city. The question of establishing a station, centrally located, where persons may go to be vaccinated was taken up, and Dr. Lacy was requested to act with Dr. Jones in picking out and recommending a proper site.

A member of the board said last night that there was no cause for alarm concerning the spread of smallpox here, but that the situation should be closely watched by the authorities and every effort made to keep down the disease.

There are now only a few cases here, and they are all of a mild form.

The physicians named temporarily to take up the work of vaccination will enter upon their duties at once.
